Dyspnea

Immediate Management:

1. Stop transfusion and maintain IV access with 0.9% saline
2. Take patient's vital signs
3. Re-check identification of patient & blood product
4. Physician assessment required
5. Notify hospital transfusion service (blood bank)
6. Return clamped blood unit with tubing attached

Consider:

- TRANSFUSION-RELATED ACUTE LUNG INJURY (TRALI)
- TRANSFUSION-ASSOCIATED CIRCULATORY OVERLOAD (TACO)
- ANAPHYLAXIS
- If TRALI is suspected, notify hospital transfusion service (blood bank) so that special donor and recipient testing can be performed
- Order STAT chest X-ray
- Oxygen, diuretics and supportive care as required, depending on type of reaction

13. FEBRILE REACTION DURING TRANSFUSION

MANAGEMENT ALGORITHM

Fever (and/or Shaking Chills/Rigors)

>1 °C increase in temperature
AND temperature >38 °C during or up to 4 hours post infusion

Immediate Management:

1. Stop transfusion and maintain IV access
2. Take patient's vital signs
3. Re-check identification of patient & blood product
4. Physician assessment required
5. Notify hospital transfusion service (blood bank), even if transfusion restarted or completed

Clerical error or serious symptoms?

Temperature  $\geq 39$  °C, hypotension/shock, tachycardia, shaking chills/rigors, anxiety, dyspnea, back/chest pain, hemoglobinuria/oliguria, bleeding from IV sites, nausea/vomiting

No

Administer acetaminophen 325-650 mg

Continue transfusion cautiously under observation; likely a febrile non-hemolytic transfusion reaction

Stop the transfusion if patient develops any of the above symptoms

Yes

DO NOT RESTART TRANSFUSION

SUSPECT

1. Hemolytic transfusion reaction;

OR

2. Bacterial contamination

- Collect blood bank specimen to re-check ABO-group
- Clamp tubing, send unit to hospital blood bank along with attached IV solutions for bacterial cultures and gram stain
- Send first post-transfusion urine specimen
- Send blood cultures on patient taken from a different IV site

14. URTICARIAL TRANSFUSION REACTIONS

BLOOD TRANSFUSION REACTIONS

URTICARIAL TRANSFUSION REACTION

An urticarial transfusion reaction is a less severe allergic reaction to a component within the donor blood, usually serum proteins.

SIGNS & SYMPTOMS

URTICARIA

NO OTHER SYMPTOMS SUCH AS:

ANGIOEDEMA

WHEEZING & RESP
DISTRESS

HYPOTENSION

NURSING MANAGEMENT

-  STOP THE TRANSFUSION & ASSES THE PT
-  HANG NS
-  NOTIFY MD & BLOOD BANK
-  GIVE ANTIHISTAMINE AS ORDERED
-  MONITOR PT FOR 15-30 MINUTES
-  RESTART BLOOD IF HIVES RESOLVE
-  CONTINUE TO MONITOR THE PATIENT
